Parents have often developed misplaced priorities when it comes to their children. Many children in America are so busy with numerous activities that their spiritual lives are unfortunately neglected. Our approach is to drop our children off at the best church in town which we qualify by which one has the hippest youth minister, most attended programs, and the nicest facilities. For all our efforts, children are still walking away from church once they leave the nest. There is another way. Don't drop your kids off at church, bring them home to it.
