Principles of Stewardship: Living into our Calling (Participant's Workbook) Rev. Kimberly Greway, K. J. Norris-Wilke
Being a good steward is more than managing finances; a theological understanding of stewardship recognizes that all we have comes from God and can be used in service to others. This interfaith curriculum, developed originally for the Foundation of HOPE to use at the Allegheny County Jail, teaches key principles of stewardship which enable people to more fully live into their calling to be good stewards. Through lectures, small group studies of religious texts, large group discussions, and ongoing accountability groups, this curriculum teaches principles of stewardship and provides practical advice to those desiring to develop new habits.
